NYMA: As it was . . .

as it is . . .

Dedicated to the development of the whole man, since 1889 the Academy has nurtured the academic, moral, and physical growth of its students. By maintaining the highest standards of leadership in its academic instruction, military training, and sports program, NYMA produces a well rounded individual. An individual who has not only developed an important intellectual curiosity, but who also has the discipline of spirit and courage of heart to make his contribution to the future.

Purpose

THE ACADEMY HOLDS THAT ITS PURPOSE IS TO PREPARE THE STUDENT FOR HIGHER LEARNING, AND, AT THE SAME TIME, TO PREPARE HIM TO ACCEPT HIS RESPONSIBILITIES AS A CITIZEN. THE SCHOOL EXISTS FOR THE PUPIL AND THEREFORE IS BOTH FLEXIBLE IN ITS NATURE AND PROGRESSIVE IN ITS OUTLOOK. THE MILITARY FACET OF THE ACADEMY IS SEEN AS A POWERFUL FORCE IN INCULCATING PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY, LEADERSHIP, AND THE RATIONAL OBEDIENCE TO CONSTITUTED AUTHORITY. RATHER THAN A DETERRENT TO THE ACADEMIC PROGRAM, THE MILITARY COMPLEMENTS IT AND, INDEED, EXERTS A STRONG INFLUENCE TOWARD THE FULFILLMENT OF THAT PROGRAM.

To Prepare the student for higher learning . . .

NYMA meets the challenge of our increasingly complex society by providing full measures of a modern curriculum, instructional excellence, and up-to-date facilities and equipment. This college preparatory program has been developed so that the mind, once stimulated, finds ample room for growth and development.

And to accept his responsibilities

BY PROVIDING A STRONG CODE OF ETHICS. WITH ITS HEART IN THE HONOR SYSTEM, THE ACADEMY IMPARTS TO THE INDIVIDUAL A STRONG SENSE OF RESPONSIBLE CITIZENSHIP. BECAUSE HE DEVELOPS AN UNDERSTANDING OF PERSONAL INTEGRITY THE CADET IS UNIQUELY PREPARED TO MAKE HIS CONTRIBUTION TO SOCIETY.

CHANGING CLASSES AT NEW SCARBOROUGH SCIENCE BUILDING

the Academic Program*

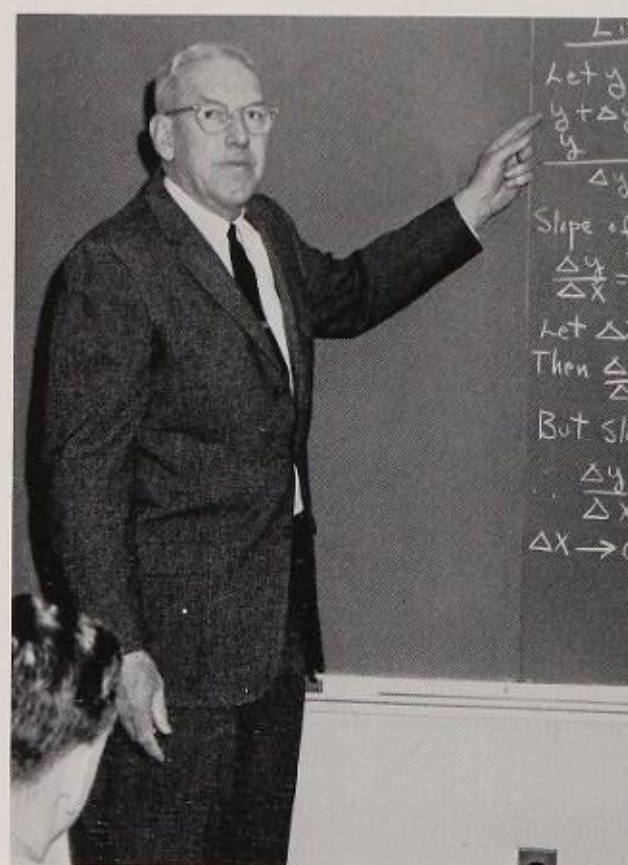

A complete program of sports and a variety of extra-curricular activities are open to every cadet. Over the years, the competitive spirit of NYMA teams has proved to be a formidable challenge to competing schools. The extra-curricular program provides a wide range of activities for individual interests. Every cadet can find a place to express his particular talents.

A strong influence toward the fulfillment of that program.

GENERAL NELSON DINGLEY, III, D.Sc., Superintendent

TO THE CLASS OF 1964

Wherever your interests may lead you in this life, let it never be said that you overlooked the essential nature of integration of moral principles with academic training. The countries represented in this graduating class of 1964 look to you to set and to maintain high standards of ethics, of integrity, and of moral and spiritual values. Even though public disclosure of adult corruption comes before us almost daily, you must not yield to it. Academic understanding and moral conduct go hand in hand.

When Pericles delivered his famous 'Funeral Oration' twenty-four hundred years ago he was pointing up this very thing. He exhorted his Athenian listeners to fix their eyes on greatness, and to remember that greatness is won by men of courage with knowledge of their duty. Men have drawn upon the experiences of former generations throughout all human history. So let us also draw upon the past with a little more than casual notice! Let us fix our eyes on greatness with the advance knowledge that it takes courage—that scholastic achievement and moral principles go together—and that these are only the minimum of requirements for a real leader of men.

Dedicated to Building Leaders

New York Military Academy has been fortunate since its very beginning to have men in command who were outstanding in leadership ability. The officers and staff of this Academy continuously look for hidden talent for leadership among the cadets, and history proves that this effort has been worthwhile. The brief historical article which follows will illustrate the type of leadership which has characterized the school for the past 75 years, and which has developed and produced some truly great leaders not only in military life, but in business and the professions as well.

The First Seventy-Five Years

The old main building, formerly a summer hotel

The founder of the New York Military Academy, Colonel Charles Jefferson Wright, was a veteran of the Civil War. A native of the State of New Hampshire, a visionary and an astute business man, he had dreams of opening a military school. Before doing so, however, he trained himself for the task by serving as Principal of Peekskill Military Academy for seventeen years. Thus it was that the founder of New York Military Academy was amply qualified to cope with problems in any phase of the administration of a military school.

It was in September of 1889 that this Academy was opened. Colonel Wright had purchased a building which had been used as a summer hotel in the days when Cornwall was a summer resort catering to guests from New York. The rambling and imposing edifice was a frame structure which needed renovations before it could be used as a school, but this was done in time to admit the first group of cadets, seventy-five in all, as boarding students.

Colonel Sebastian Chatham Jones succeeded Colonel Wright as Superintendent in 1894. His tenure in office was a long one—twenty-eight years—and during his reign an extensive building program was not only launched, but also finished. The catastrophic fire which consumed the barracks in 1910 was within this period, as was also the reconstruction of the new barracks early in 1912. Colonel Jones was keenly interested in dramatics and it was under his patronage that the forerunner of the traditional “Yea! Furlough!” came into being. The War with Spain and World War I both occurred during his term of office, and in both these wars NYMA men were in uniform. Colonel Jones was Superintendent of the Academy during some stormy days, as one can readily see, but he came into a stormy situation in the first place. There were but forty-eight cadets registered in 1894, because of a friction in the administrative staff during the previous year. The written accounts of the controversy shed little light on its true nature, but it is evident that it was Colonel Jones who picked up the pieces and put the puzzle together. When he turned the administration over to his successor in 1922 it was eminently clear that New York Military Academy was here to stay.

Brigadier General Milton F. Davis succeeded Colonel Jones as Superintendent in 1922. A distinguished explorer, soldier, and administrator, General Davis had been Commandant at the Academy since 1909. He was well known to the members of the Corps and to the staff as well, and he had the extra advantage of having worked under Colonel Jones for some years. A man of forceful character, his hallmark was imprinted in the hearts and minds of those with whom he worked and lived. One might imagine this change in command as one of the easiest and smoothest in all our history. General Davis resigned as Superintendent in 1936 to become President of New York Military Academy, a position which he held until his death two years later.

Lieutenant Colonel Frank A. Pattillo became the fourth Superintendent of the Academy in 1936. Colonel Pattillo also had the advantage of ten years of experience with the Corps, first as Commandant from 1926 to 1933, and after that as Assistant Superintendent from 1933 to 1936. He ruled with an iron hand, we are told by those who knew him. He was continuously plagued by physical pain which was the direct result of a severe wound in battle during World War I. It was because of his failing physical condition that he asked to be relieved of his work on September 1, 1951. This was granted by the Board of Trustees and Colonel Pattillo then became the head of fund raising activities, a position which he retained for one year before his final retirement from the academy.

Brigadier General Nelson Dingley, III, became the fifth Superintendent of New York Military Academy on September 1, 1951, after completing 36½ years of military service. General Dingley was in Washington when he was called to take the helm at NYMA. He had only recently returned from his diplomatic post in Poland, and was preparing to leave for Sweden, again as senior military attache. The Korean situation was increasingly troublesome and Europe was not settled. Because of the essential nature of his work, the United States Army would not release him to become available to New York Military Academy for one full year. A brief quotation from a letter to the Board of Trustees from the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, will illustrate the point:

Dear Mr. Reynolds:

Colonel Dingley has been selected for a very important position in the Army Attache system and will therefore be committed to an overseas assignment at the time when your interest in him would be greatest.

In the event the position you have for him need not be filled immediately, I unhesitatingly endorse his future selection. From personal knowledge I believe Colonel Dingley's experience, ability, and personality make him an admirable choice for such a post.

It is my earnest hope that you may be able to make interim arrangements that will favor such a deserving person as I know Colonel Dingley to be.

S. Leroy Lutes

Maj. Gen. GSC

Asst. C/S G-2

This is but a small part of the background concerning the arrival of the fifth Superintendent of the Academy, but it suffices to illustrate his reputation as an administrator long before he came to NYMA. At this point in the school's history the Corps was showing signs of growth, but the physical property needed improvement, and the Board of Trustees felt that a strong administrator must be found. General Dingley will be remembered best, perhaps, for those characteristics which combine to make him the able administrator that he was. It was during his reign that the old frame structure, Bard Hall, was replaced with a beautiful modern dormitory which appropriately was dedicated to General Dingley. It was during his time that the academic systems of testing came into prominence and were adopted at NYMA. It was on the tenth of June, 1961, that General Dingley retired as Superintendent of New York Military Academy and moved to Vero Beach, Florida, and the Sixth Superintendent, Colonel Marvin J. Coyle, USMA, took command.

Colonel Marvin J. Coyle, USA retired, was graduated from West Point, and has served on active duty in several theatres of World War II in Europe and in Asia. He was Deputy Commander, II Corps, Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, immediately prior to his arrival on the local scene. His tenure was brief, but during his term of office there were many happenings of significant interest to future generations. There was the fire of October 29, 1962, which completely demolished the gymnasium and parts of the main barracks. Then there was the erection of the new gymnasium with its modern equipment, and the construction of Scarborough Hall with its new and modern science and language laboratories and the addition to the Library. Colonel Coyle resigned on March 6, 1964, and General Dingley was recalled from retirement to serve an interim term as Superintendent, arriving on March 7.

It is not possible to list the accomplishments which properly belong to the credit of each specific superintendent. What has been written is but a suggestion of the character of each of the men who have led this Corps through both the thick and the thin of this life. No attempt to do justice to the efforts of the individual men is intended. What is intended, however, is to show that out of one man's dreams this great Academy emerged. Within three quarters of a century gas lights gave way to electricity. The old hotel in which the school was founded has been replaced with a more permanent structure which is now out of date itself. Buildings and people grow old, but the weapon of understanding lives forever! This is the way schools are born and then brought into maturity. This is the means, and perhaps the only means, of insuring the purveyance of knowledge with perpetual momentum.

Looking Back

It is unfortunate that no history of the Academy was written until General Dingley wrote his economic history in 1963, and the only information available up to last year was to be found in early editions of The Shrapnel and of The Ram- ble. General Dingley's document is still in manuscript form, but one might hope that it would be published before much more time passes. This work divides the history of the Academy into three periods. "The Early Days," from 1889 to

Early Uniforms

1910, describes the very beginning of the school and concludes with the great fire of 1910. The second division, covering the period from 1910 to 1951, he calls "The Reconstruction." The last period, from 1951 to 1961, is called "The Reorganization." Then follows ten short chapters on "The Fiscal Year," one for each of the years of his tenure in office. We have drawn heavily upon General Dingley's history in order to make the writing of this brief article possible.

The Shrapnel of 1939 is another source from which much has been incorporated in this article. This edition was the fiftieth anniversary book, and it contains an admirable accounting of life at the school year by year. In this volume one finds many human interest stories which are humorous in retrospect, even though they most certainly had no humor in them at the time of the happenings. For example, there is the descriptive anecdote written on page twenty of the 1939 Shrapnel which tells of the cockfight held on the banks of the Ramble in 1905. Two brothers who were cadets here in the class of 1906 suddenly found themselves without funds. Somehow they were able to procure two gamecocks. They set the time and place of the match, and the grapevine carried this information around the Corps. Admission was set at twenty-five cents, and the match began. It happened that one guest who had not been invited quite suddenly arrived on the scene. It was the Commandant! Each cadet received the full measure of one hundred marks!

Athletics

The athletic program dates from the inception of the Academy. The first interscholastic competition was in baseball in the spring of 1890 when the cadets were victorious over the Siglar School in Newburgh with a score of 29 to 28. The school colors—maroon and white—were chosen that same year, and these colors remain the same today. The school cheer, familiar to the present Corps, also dates from 1890:

*Hobble-gobble, razzle-dazzle,
Sis-boom-bah!
N-Y-M-A,
Rah! rah! rah.*

The first football encounter was in 1890, and here again the cadets were victorious. This was a rousing game, and the Westminster School, Dobbs Ferry, came out with no score against NYMA's 18. During this year eight baseball contests found the cadets winning five games. In 1895 football was eminently successful and the season closed with a victory over Peekskill Military Academy, 12 to 8.

The United States Golf Association was but two years old when school opened in the fall of 1896. The cadets had been exposed to golf all summer. Their interest in golf exploded when they returned to the campus and permission was granted to lay out a course on the Academy property. Before the end of September they had finished the first three holes, and by the end of October the complete nine-hole course was completed. The enthusiasm of the cadets was enhanced because Colonel Jones was an ardent golfer whose score of 52 for the nine holes was one of the best recorded during the entire year,

Band

The first Band, essential to the life of any military academy, was formed in 1889, and had as its first Bandmaster the school barber, George Bayard. The early days were difficult for the Band, which did not come into full maturity until 1909. In the meantime a Drum and Bugle Corps was formed in 1906. Today there are fifty-four members of the Band who play for marching into the mess hall as well as for the weekly parades, and there are sections of it to play for dances as well. The Band has for some years participated in the annual Columbus Day Parade up Fifth Avenue in New York City, and frequent concerts are given out of town and at the Academy also. The evening concert under "the old maple" is now a tradition on the Mother's Day Week-end. Individual instruction is available, and daily rehearsals are conducted by the full-time Bandmaster.

Drama

A Dramatic Club was formed in 1890 to rehearse for its first presentation which was in March of 1891. Annual productions were presented by the cadets, but the first extravaganza was not staged until 1930. Here one can see the roots of our present day "Yea! Furlough!" which during the past two years has grown into real bloom by presenting a full length Broadway play, with the Band in the pit, a director, and an impresario.

Military

New York Military Academy cadets have been engaged in every war since the school was founded. Thirty-one of our alumni were engaged in the War with Spain in 1898, but there were only two casualties. The first war casualty in the history of NYMA was Charles Beckwith

Cadet officers, 1893

Brown, from the class of 1896, who was killed in the Battle of San Juan Hill. There is sufficient evidence to substantiate the belief that Brown was killed within the sight of Theodore Roosevelt.

There were thirteen casualties during World War I, the first being Perley R. Hamilton from the Class of 1916.

General Davis wrote of the Academy's World

War I record:

“Something over 500 of the NYMA men were in uniform and giving service during this war. Some classes were commissioned to a man. The great majority of the men were naturally commissioned as junior officers on account of their youthfulness and lack of recent experience, but our list shows that the school furnished the army one brigadier-general, eight colonels, five lieutenant-colonels, twelve majors, fifty captains, and a swarm of first and second lieutenants. Twenty-six men from the faculty entered the service, including one colonel, one lieutenant-colonel, four majors, and many junior officers."

Eleven hundred and twenty former cadets were in action during World War II, and there were fifty-five casualties. The first casualty in this war was William Pfeil from the class of 1940.

Ninety-six of our alumni served in the Korean War, and there were no casualties.

There has been but one casualty in the Vietnam conflict. Captain Walter R. McCarthy, class of 1947, was instantly killed in 1962 near Saigon. While Captain McCarthy was at the Academy he won letters in Varsity wrestling, in football, and in lacrosse.

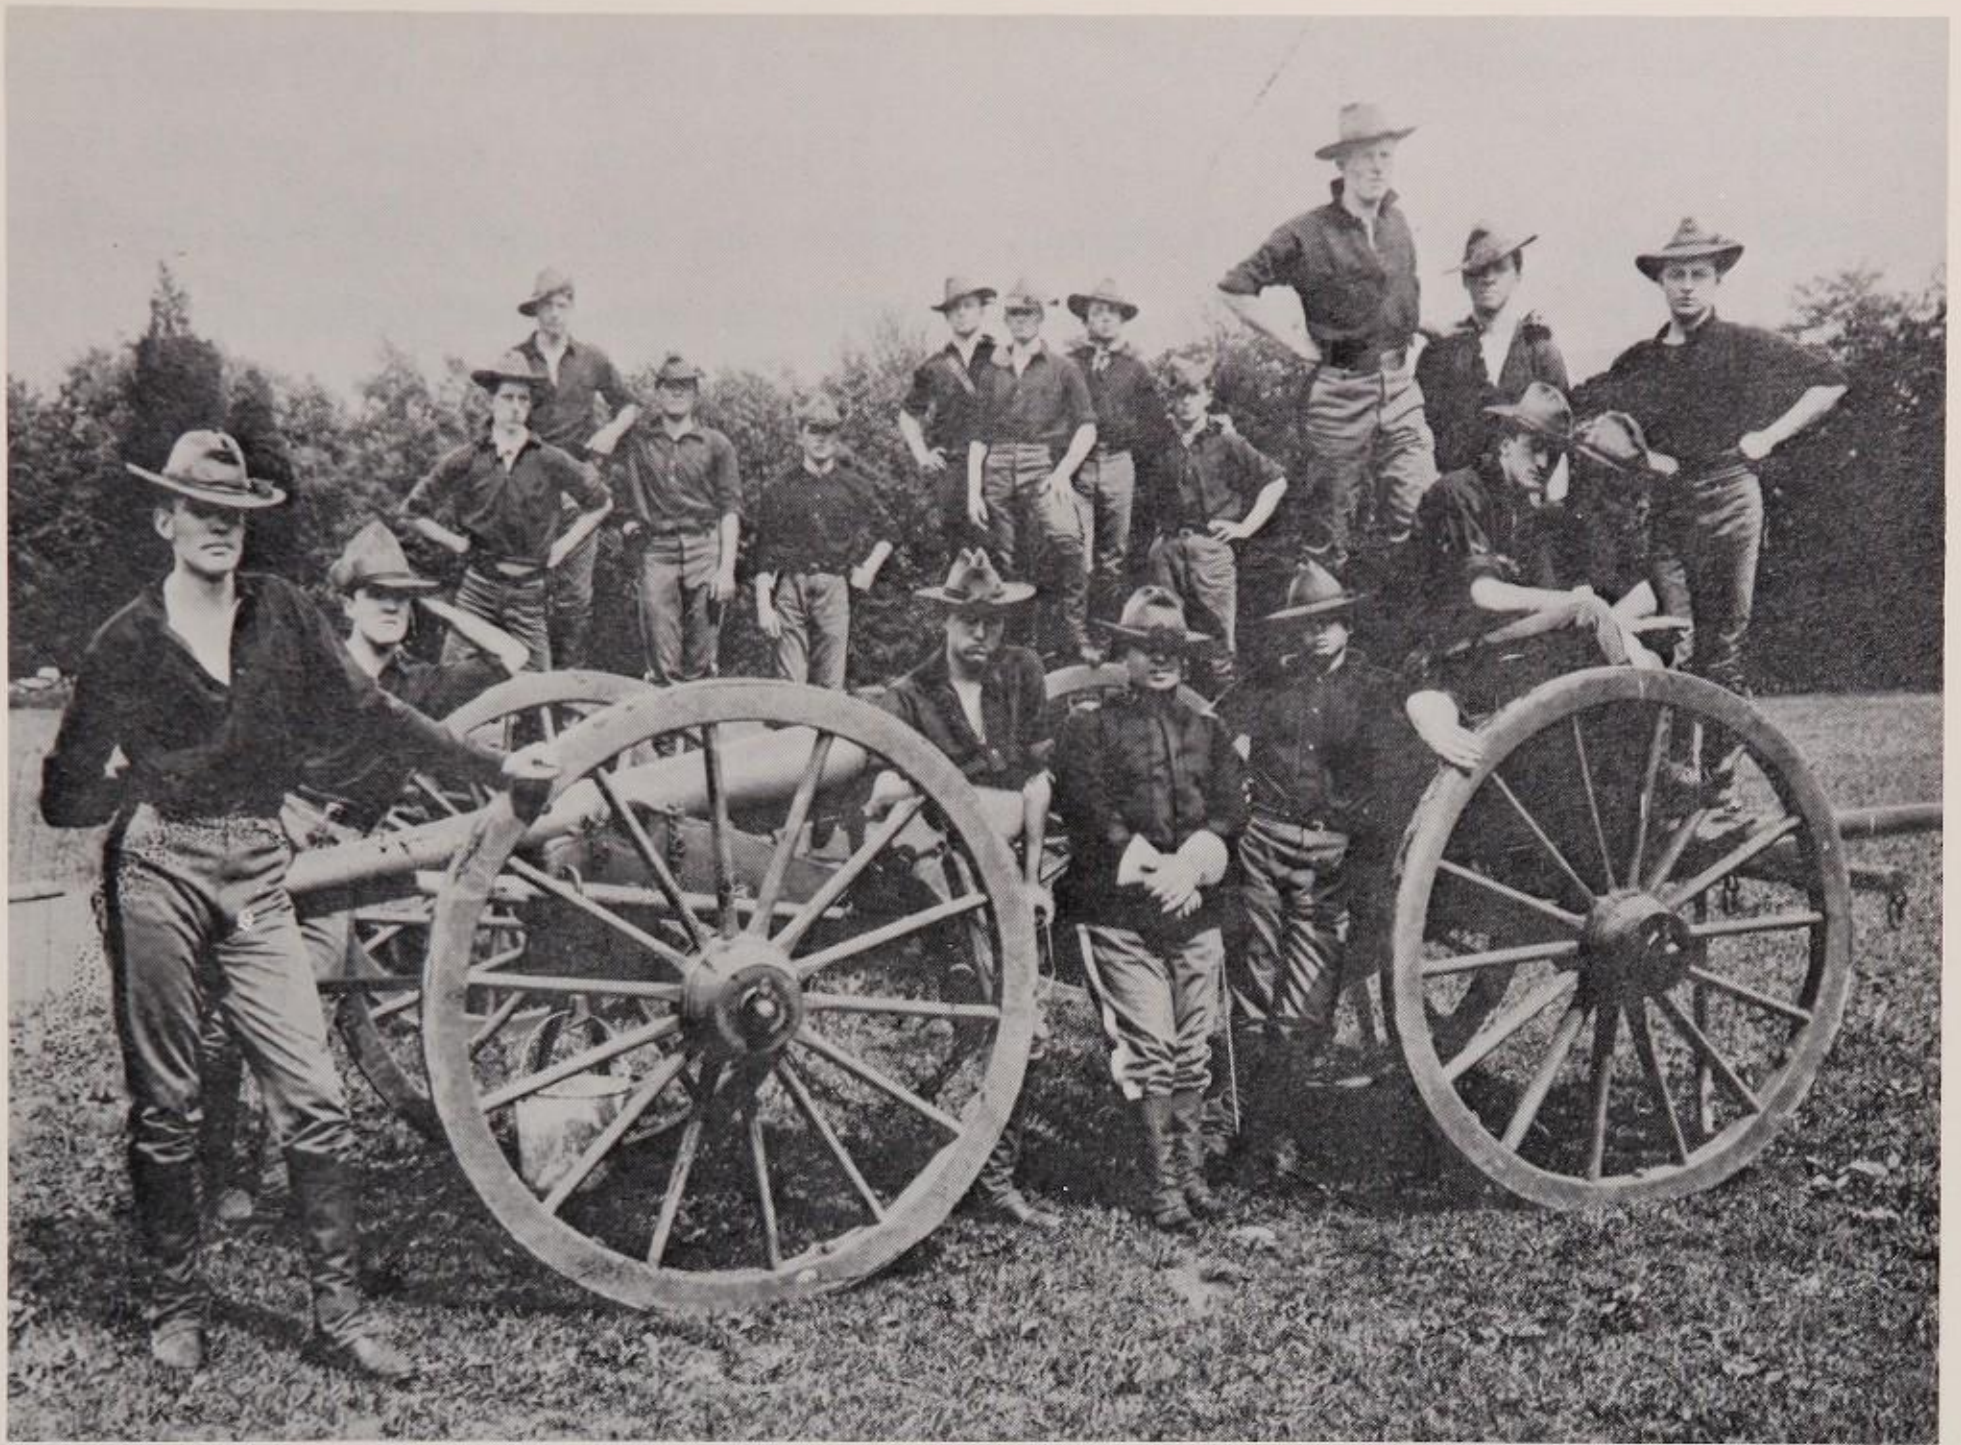

Many of our former cadets have gone on to attain great stature in military leadership.

In the previous chapter we noted but a small part of the career of General Nelson Dingley, III, whose military assignments took him all over the world over a period of almost four decades. After his graduation from NYMA in 1910 he entered Union College. His college work was interrupted when he entered military service in the Mexican Border Campaign. He was advanced to Captain in 1917, and the following year he went overseas with the A.E.F., commanding an artillery battery in France. He advanced through the grades to Colonel, USA, in 1942, and on August 26, 1956, he was appointed Brigadier General of the Line, Reserve List, New York Guard.

During World War II General Dingley was Inspector General, Hawaiian Division, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. On that same day he was transferred back to the Artillery and was appointed Chief of Staff of the Mid-Pacific Antiaircraft Command, where he served during the first eighteen months of the War. In September of 1944 he was sent to England, where he was appointed Assistant to General Lucius Clay, who at that time was organizing the Military Government in Germany. General Dingley served as Chief of Staff, US Group Control Council, Germany, in 1944 and 1945. Later he became Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1 (personnel), of the famous US Third Army. From 1945 to 1946 he was Military Executive to the political advisor, Office of Military Government, United States. His last two assignments were as Senior Military Attache at the American Embassies, first in Warsaw, Poland, and later in Stockholm, Sweden. After his retirement from active duty he returned to his Alma Mater as Superintendent.

It was only recently that another great leader, General Messinger, of the class of 1925, was nominated for promotion by President Johnson. The February issue of the Newsletter had this to say:

“Major General Edwin G. Messinger, whose promotion to Lieutenant General is now pending confirmation by the Senate of the United States, has been serving as Deputy Chief of Staff for logistics in the Department of the Army. General Messinger will be assigned as Deputy Commander of the United States Continental Army Command Headquarters at Fort Monroe, Virginia, where he will succeed Lieutenant General John W. Bowen, who will assume command of the 18th Airborne Corps.”

Another alumnus of distinction is Lieutenant General James E. Briggs, USAF retired, from the class of 1924. General Briggs was the second Superintendent of the US Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Byron Gordon MacNabb, class of 1928, former Operations Manager, Atlas ICBM, General Dynamics Astronautics, is now Director of Test Engineering, Astronautics, in San Diego, California.

This by no means exhausts the long list of leaders that have gone forth from New York Military Academy, for there have been far too many to list in the professions and in various businesses. This merely illustrates the kind of leadership which this Academy seeks to bring out in a cadet once the possibility of development is discovered. Currently ten of our former cadets are in military service academies.

Bard Hall

The Class of 1964 is proud to dedicate this seventy-fifth annual Shrapnel to Charlotte Cole MacDonald, who, after thirty-four years of teaching at New York Military Academy, died on March 3, 1964.

Between 1942 and 1952 Mrs. MacDonald was Matron of Bard Hall where she and Colonel MacDonald lived with the younger cadets who were quartered there. Bard Hall, pictured above, was very close to the hearts of both, and it was here that many of the "little men" came to know and to love Mrs. MacDonald for her devotion to those who were away at school for the first time in their lives.

Mrs. MacDonald was born in Fulton, New York, on October 24, 1904. She attended Fulton High School and Oswego State Teachers College. She was graduated from New York State College for Teachers in Albany with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

On August 27, 1929, she was married to the late Colonel Harold J. MacDonald, and the following September joined the faculty of this Academy as a teacher of the fifth grade. She continued to teach in the Lower School until a few months before her death.

The Class of 1964 acknowledges the great debt of gratitude which the entire Academy owes to Mrs. MacDonald.
